43% of Israeli towns have residential admission committees, which are used to exclude Palestinian Citizens and entrench racial segregation. Israel’s Supreme Court upholds the law that allows them to operate.